

Spring

In the quiet streets, the birds begin to cheer.
The rain falls and flowers are starting to bloom.
The breeze is gentle, like a frolicking deer;
finally, we are free of late winter gloom.

The earth undergoes her annual rebirth;
flowers lush from the work of the honey bee.
Nature's secrets are now ready to unearth,
ready to restore the ardor springtime glee.

The anticipation of the soft spring air,
coming in to replace the harsh winter's snow.
The sensation of joy is felt everywhere,
creating excitement for the summer glow.
The alluring song of nature has been played,
telling us to make the most of these spring days.

STUDENT, 2ND PLACE, ALYSSA FIRTH